Leadline – Rules and Patterns (Classes #22)

Tack and performance of pony would be same rules as Western Equitation or English Equitation.

Leadline is a horse show class for very young children, generally under the age of 7 years. An adult or older child actually leads the horse in-hand, while the child that is judged sits on the horse and usually holds the reins, but only for the sake of appearance, as the actual control of the animal rests with the handler on the ground. The horse is shown at a walk and a trot, and the riding child is judged on their equitation, limited to proper seat, leg and hand position, to a lesser extent on poise. The child is not asked to actually control the animal, though a judge may award extra points if the child initiates certain commands to the horse and even more points if the horse actually responds.

If child is unable to trot, they may walk the pattern.
